

Facts about fertility

SESAME
BANKHALL GROUP.

30 October 2023 marks the start of National Fertility Awareness Week. It's a subject that many may find uncomfortable, or be unsure how to talk about with colleagues, friends and family.

To kick-start the conversation, take a look at these facts about fertility.

Who's affected by infertility?

Globally, at least 500 million adults are affected by infertility

Source: World Health Organisation

Approximately 3.5 million people in the UK are struggling with infertility

Source: Fertility Network

36% Considered leaving their jobs

*Content from FertilityMattersAtWork

Fertility in the workplace

61.1%

didn't feel confident in talking to their employer about trying for a baby.

68%

felt their treatment had a significant impact on their mental and emotional wellbeing.

74.2%

didn't feel that the topic of fertility was recognised in their organisation.

1.7%

had a fertility policy that met their needs.

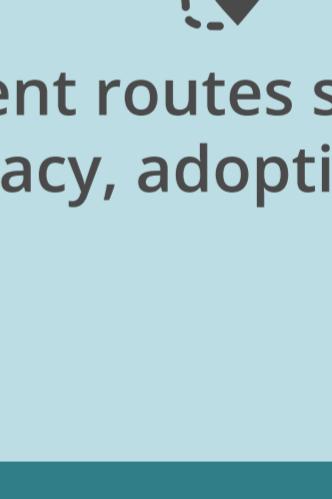

72%

don't have a fertility policy in their workplace.

69.5%

took sick leave during treatment.

Source: Fertility Matters At Work 2020 survey

Supporting those experiencing infertility

Allow for reasonable adjustments:

Adjust work start and end times

Consider adjusting meeting times

Provide storage space and other practical things

Be flexible:

Not uncommon to be on this journey for many years

Evolving needs tailored to individual

Different routes such as surrogacy, adoption etc.

Remember:

Real change in the workplace comes from all colleagues being part of the solution through training, webinars etc.

Recognise that infertility is classed as a disease by the World Health Organisation

Include all colleagues in the wider conversation

Be as fertility-friendly as possible

Be mindful about comments and use inclusive language

Current working patterns may no longer suit

Workplace culture

Workplace culture

Ongoing commitment

Not just initial conversation

Takes time and commitment from all

WELLBEING CHAMPIONS
SESAME BANKHALL GROUP.

#Forward4Fertility
FERTILITY WEEK
30 Oct - 5 Nov 23
FertilityNetworkUK

Source: Fertility Network